This annual University Times supplement recognizes faculty and staff who have written, edited and translated books, as well as those whose efforts have extended into other areas, such as journals, plays and musical compositions.

We regret that space constraints prohibit including other kinds of publications/creative endeavors. At the suggestion of a faculty advisory committee, we have included only items that were peer-reviewed: Anything identified as a self-published work was excluded. We also have restricted listings to complete works, because individual chapters, articles, works of art and poems would be too numerous.

Submissions are divided into three sections: Books, Journals and More. In each section, submissions are arranged according to school/unit, then listed alphabetically by title. Works are cross-listed when collaborators represent more than one Pitt unit. In instances where there are non-Pitt collaborators, the Pitt faculty or staff member is listed first.

Submissions in this year’s publication have a 2015 copyright or performance date.

The Bioarchaeology of Classical Kamarina: Life and Death in Greek Sicily by Carrie L. Stakeley Weaver, history of art and architecture. University Press of Florida.

Sicily was one of the first areas settled during the Greek colonization movement, making it a city that is a popular area of study. Although this area is often studied, much has yet to be discovered and understood.

The Bioarchaeology of Classical Kamarina: Life and Death in Greek Sicily is the first work to provide an overview of the life and death of this city. Through the use of archaeological and historical evidence, the author provides insights into the cultural and social aspects of life in Kamarina.

The book begins with an introduction to the city and its history, followed by a detailed examination of the archaeological sites. The author provides a comprehensive overview of the city’s development, from its early settlement to its eventual decline.

The Bioarchaeology of Classical Kamarina: Life and Death in Greek Sicily is an important contribution to the field of bioarchaeology. It provides a valuable resource for scholars interested in the history and culture of the Greek world.
A Journey Through Philosophy in 101 Anecdotes
by Nicholas Rescher, philosophy
University of Pittsburgh Press.

This is the first comprehensive chronology of philosophical anecdotes, from antiquity to the current era. The author introduces the major thinkers, texts and historical periods of Western philosophy, recounting many of the stories philosophers have used over time to engage with issues of epistemological concern: questions of meaning, truth, knowledge, value, action and ethics. His anecdotes touch on a wide range of themes — from logic to epистемology, ethics to the metaphysical.

La senda
edited by Daniel Baldorlson, Hispanic languages and literatures University of Pittsburgh Press.

This cultural dictionary contains articles on major personalities, places, events and accomplishments from the 1,000-year record of Polish history and culture. Featuring approximately 900 compact text entries and 600 illustrations, it can be used as a home reference book, a supplement to guidebooks or as an aid to language study.

Los caminos del afecto
by Daniel Baldorlson, Hispanic languages and literatures Instituto Casa y Cerrro.

This book contains a series of essays about the development of queer literary traditions in Latin America, with essays on the Chilean Augusto D’Hilmar, the Mexican Coompermanentos group, Fernando Vallejo’s role in the recovery of queer writing in Colombia in the early 20th century, the literary circles of Argentina Alejandra Pizzarol and Silvina Ocampo, and a pornographic rewriting (in French) of the classic 19th century Colombian novel “Maria,” among other topics.

The Nerve of It
Poems New and Selected
by Lynn Emanuel, English
University of Pittsburgh Press.

The author ignores chronology, placing new poems beside old, mixing middle and early poems with recent work, and liberating all her poems from the restraints of their particular histories, both aesthetic and autobiographical.

No Way Out: Precarious Living in the Shadow of Poverty and Drug Dealng
by Waverly Duck, sociology
University of Chicago Press.

The book explores how neighborhood residents make sense of their lives within severe constraints as they choose among very unappealing prospects, rather than freely acting on their values. The vast social distance between those who create public policy and those it is supposed to serve means that mainstream institutions not only limit people’s life chances but constitute a system of collective punishment.

Nobody!
by Eric Frankel, linguistic; illustrations by Paula Houshy Foe Furei Publishing.

This is a picture book about overcoming bullying in school. Thomas feels that no matter what he does, he can’t escape Kyle’s bullying. With support from friends, classmates and adults, Thomas starts to feel more confident in himself and his hobbies, while Kyle learns the importance of kinder behaviors. The book concludes with activity pages for kids, as well as information to help parents, teachers, counselors and other adults foster dialogue with children about ways to stop bullying. This is the author’s fourth book in a series on bullying.

Regional Settlement Demography in Archaeology
by Robert Sirr, anthropology, C. Adam Berry, Clarion University; C. Christian Peterson, University of Florida.

Archaeological research at the scale region investigates the past by studying how people organized themselves and their activities across hundreds or thousands of square kilometers. Archaeological field methods developed over a half-century combine with powerful new quantitative tools for spatial analysis to unlock new potential for identifying and studying adjacent local communities and regional polities. Varied approaches to estimating regional population sizes in both relative and absolute terms are synthesized and their advantages and disadvantages assessed. Tools for quantitative analysis of regional demographic data are presented. Field survey methods are compiled from widely scattered sources and best practices for collecting archaeological data to sustain demographic analysis are delineated. Promising directions for future methodological development are identified.

Reverberations
edited by Delalene Jenkins, studio arts; Karoline Yaviteck, studio arts University of Pennsylvania Press.

This is a catalogue of an exhibition by faculty in the Department of Studio Arts, Sept. 10-Oct. 25, 2015, in the University Art Gallery. It provides a timeline of department faculty since the founding of the department in 1968, highlights the recent work of retiring faculty member Paul Gabbi, previewing new and exhibiting faculty and highlights the premier of a collaborative, semipermanent media installation in the gallery’s rotunda entitled “Portal.”

Social Sciences in the Arab World: Forms of Presence
by Mohammed Bamyeh, sociology Arab Council for the Social Sciences.

This is the first comprehensive report on the social sciences in the Arab world, appearing in Arabic, English and French.

The Strange Case of Ermine de Reims: A Medieval Woman Between Demons and Saints by Renate Blumenfeld-Kosinski, French and Italian languages and literatures
University of Pennsylvania Press.

In 1384, a poor and illiterate peasant woman named Ermine moved to Reims. After she was widowed, Ermine was tormented by nightly visions of angels and demons. She confessed these occurrences to a friar, Jean Le Greuve, who recorded them in detail. The author examines Ermine’s life, her relationship with her confessor, her ascetic and devotional practices, and her reported encounters with heavenly and hellish beings.
Sugar Run Road
by Ed Oehser, English.
Autumn House Press.

Thus Were Their Faces
translated by Daniel Balderston, Hispanic language and literatures.
NYRA Classics.

This is a collection of the stories of Silvina Ocampo (1903-93), one of Argentina’s leading literary figures, who has become more prominent since her death. The stories were written between the 1930s and the 1980s, and include masterpieces of suspense and cruelty, somewhat warped crime fiction, stories of metamorphoses, doubles and the ways in which fantasy intervenes in everyday life.

by John Markoff, sociology.
 Routledge.

This book treats democratization from the late 18th century to our time as a multicontinental process involving social movements and power-holding elites.

Wiederrerrinnerter Idealismus
by Robert Brandom, philosophy.
Wagner.

This book is a collection of the stories of Hegel and his intellectual development.

Bradford
Bio-Nanoparticles: Biosynthesis and Sustainable Biotechnological Implications edited by Ov W. Singh, biological and health sciences.
Wiley.

Extemophiles and Their Applications in Medical Processes edited by Ov W. Singh, biological and health sciences; Prema Balasubramaniam, science; Angi K. Chandra.
Springer.

The Shakespeare Handbooks: Shakespeare’s Contemporaries — Volumes on Volpone and Doctor Faustus edited by Kevan Eyser, communication and the arts; Paul Edmundson, Shakespeare Birthplace Trust.
Pulgrave.

Education
Community Engagement in Higher Education: Policy Reforms and Practice edited by W. James Jacob, administrator and policy studies; Stuart E. Satin, administrative and policy studies; John C. Weidman, administrative and policy studies; Linda DeAngelis, administrative and policy studies; Michael Kalchbrenner, administrator and policy studies; James Fushan, administrative and policy studies; Maureen J. Collins, administrative and policy studies; Stuart Satin, administrative and policy studies; Kristin D’Alesio, Institutional Advancement; Lauris Cohen, University Library System.

This book is part of the Association for the Study of Higher Education reader series.

Economics and Finance of Higher Education edited by John C. Weidman, administrative and policy studies; John L. Yogger, administrative and policy studies; Linda DeAngelis, administrative and policy studies; Michael Kalchbrenner, administrator and policy studies; James Fushan, administrative and policy studies; Maureen J. Collins, administrative and policy studies; Stuart Satin, administrative and policy studies; Kristin D’Alesio, Institutional Advancement; Lauris Cohen, University Library System.

This book is part of the Association for the Study of Higher Education reader series.

Workplace Health Promotion Programs: Planning, Implementation and Evaluation edited by W. James Jacob, administrator and policy studies; Sheng Yao Chen, National Chung Cheng University.
Springer.

This book provides up-to-date scholarly research on global trends on three issues of paramount importance to indigenous education: language, culture and identity. It also offers a strategic comparative and international education policy statement on recent shifts in indigenous education, and new approaches to explore, develop and improve comparative education and policy research globally. Contributors examine several social justice issues related to indigenous education.

In addition to case perspectives from 12 countries and global regions, the volume includes five conceptual chapters on topics that influence indigenous education: policy debates; the media; the United Nations; formal and informal education systems; and higher education.

Race(ing) to Class: Confronting Poverty and Race in Schools and Classrooms by H. Richard Milner IV, Center for Urban Education.
Harvard Education Press.

This book provides educators with a crucial understanding of how to teach students of color who live in poverty. The author looks at the circumstances of these students’ lives and describes how those circumstances profoundly affect their experiences within schools and classrooms.

Workplace Health Promotion Programs: Planning, Implementation and Evaluation by Carl J. Fornatin, health and physical activity.
Jones-Bass.

This book focuses on the value that employee health programs can offer by exploring six key topics: behavioral health; physical health; healthy environments; health education; nutritional health; and physical activity. It establishes what successful workplace health promotion programs, services and collaborations are, then builds on this foundation by introducing methods and tools for promoting employee health and safety, while emphasizing the skills students need to do so.

This through resource, students learn how to recognize employee health and safety opportunities, and how to think on a larger scale when it comes to workplace health initiatives that are comprehensive and focally sound.

Belief Is Its Own Kind of Truth, Maybe by Lari L. Jakub, humanities-English.
Atticis Books.

Information Sciences
Archival Research and Education: Selected Papers From the 2014 AERI Conference edited by Richard J. Cox, library and information sciences; Elena Howlett, library and information sciences; Alison Langmuir, District School of Arts and Sciences.
Litwin Books.
REGIONAL SETTLEMENT DEMOGRAPHY IN ARCHAEOLOGY

INSTITUTIONAL ADVANCEMENT

Economics and Finance of Higher Education
edited by Kristin DeLage, Institutional Advancement; John C. Widman, School of Education; John L. Yaeger, School of Education; Linda D. Adolph, School of Education; Michael Gaentzler, School of Education; James Jacobs, School of Education; Maureen McClure, School of Education; Stewart Sutin, School of Education; Lazar Cohen, Library University System. Pearson Learning Solutions.

LAW

Controversies in Tax Law: A Matter of Perspective

This volume presents a new approach to today’s tax controversies, reflecting that debates about taxation often turn on the differing world views of the debate participants.

For instance, a central tension in the academic tax literature, which is filtering into everyday discussions of tax law, exists between “mainstream” and “critical” tax theorists. This tension results from a clash of perspectives: Is taxation primarily a matter of social science or social justice? Should tax policy debates be grounded in economics or in critical race, feminist, queer, and other outsider perspectives?

In writing their essays, the authors read test their knowledge with questions at the foundations of anesthesiology. Readers can found patient care. Authorities discuss the techniques needed for upper and lower extremity blocks, trigeminal blocks, pain blocks, trauma, critical care and more.

INSTITUTIONAL ADVANCEMENT

Economics and Finance of Higher Education
edited by Kristin DeLage, Institutional Advancement; John C. Widman, School of Education; John L. Yaeger, School of Education; Linda D. Adolph, School of Education; Michael Gaentzler, School of Education; James Jacobs, School of Education; Maureen McClure, School of Education; Stewart Sutin, School of Education; Lazar Cohen, Library University System. Pearson Learning Solutions.

LAW

Controversies in Tax Law: A Matter of Perspective

This volume presents a new approach to today’s tax controversies, reflecting that debates about taxation often turn on the differing world views of the debate participants.

For instance, a central tension in the academic tax literature, which is filtering into everyday discussions of tax law, exists between “mainstream” and “critical” tax theorists. This tension results from a clash of perspectives: Is taxation primarily a matter of social science or social justice? Should tax policy debates be grounded in economics or in critical race, feminist, queer, and other outsider perspectives?

In writing their essays, the authors read test their knowledge with questions at the foundations of anesthesiology. Readers can found patient care. Authorities discuss the techniques needed for upper and lower extremity blocks, trigeminal blocks, pain blocks, trauma, critical care and more.
BOOKS

PUBLIC HEALTH

Health Program Management, 2nd Edition
by Beaufort B. Lomax Jr., health policy and management.

This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the management of all stages of a health program. It includes an overview of the most current best practices in the field and shows readers how to apply them to achieve successful results for their programs. The book explores how to move programs from initial development through evaluation of results.

SOCIAL WORK

Interventions for Serious Mental Disorders: Working With Individuals and Their Families
by Christina Northall.
Pearson Education.

This is a biopsychosocial treatment guide that prepares the beginning clinician to work with some of the most challenging clients seen at public community mental/behavioral health care services. Topics include how to develop and maintain a therapeutic alliance with individuals with serious mental illness; how to manage and overcome the impact of stigma; how to manage a client’s lack of insight and facilitate illness awareness; how to manage legal and ethical issues; challenges related to diversity; and how to work with and engage involuntary and resistant clients. The book explains how to overcome potential barriers to effective treatment engagement with individuals suffering from severe mental illnesses. It features case illustrations and client- clinician dialogues to engage students, enhance their understanding of how such disorders present and facilitate development of their clinical skills.

UNIVERSITY CENTER for INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Beyond Raw Materials: Who Are the Actors in the Latin America and Caribbean-China Relationship?
by Atole Armony, Enrique Chassal Peters.
National Autonomous University of Mexico. Nueva Sociedad.

This journal publishes critical writing on this issue from the first years after the Bolshevik Revolution through the Moscow trials of the 1930s. Throughout, he examines how Trotsky’s perception of events influenced his theoretical understanding of the problem and how Trotsky’s theory reciprocally shaped his analysis of political developments. Additionally, the author notes both strengths and weaknesses of Trotsky’s theoretical perspective at each stage in its development. This is a paperback edition of a book previously published by Brill.

JOURNALS

ARTS and SCIENCES

Anthropology & Aging
edited by Philip Kans, anthropology.
University Library System, University of Pittsburgh.

This is the journal of the Association for Anthropology & Gerontology, a nonprofit organization established in 1978 as a multidisciplinary group dedicated to the exploration and understanding of aging within and across the diversity of human cultures.

Its perspective is holistic, comparative and international; preferred manuscripts have cross-disciplinary appeal, present cutting-edge research and bring creative and stimulating insight to aging studies and the human condition across the life course.

BioScope: South Asian Screen Studies
edited by Neeta Majumdar, English; Manish Biswas, Jadavpur University; Reita Thakur, University of Westminister; Ruti S. Vasantrao, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies.
Sage Publications.

This blind-peer reviewed journal, published biannually, provides a forum for the intersections of South Asian screen practices with related media forms, such as musical recording and performance, popular print culture, stage set design as musical recording and performance, public art, advertising and consumer cultures. It has published research on historical, regional and virtual spaces of screen cultures.

boundary 2
edited by Paul A. Bové, English; managing editor: Margaret A. Harwan, English.
Duke University Press.

This journal publishes critical writing across a range of disciplines. It draws on the long resources of literary and humanistic writings and scholarship to engage with grave imaginative and intellectual problems identifiable across a spectrum of peoples, languages and politics. It is secular in its commitments and historical in its methods.

The Carl Beck Papers in Russian and Eastern European Studies edited by William Chase, history and University Center for International Studies; Robert Donziger, University Center for International Studies; Andrew Konitzer, University Center for International Studies; managing editor: Edwina O’Malley, University Center for International Studies; Christopher Deitch, Center for Russian and Eastern European Studies.

This is a scholarly paper series named after the first director of UCIS. It publishes work in many disciplines and areas of inquiry. Submissions are anonymously refereed.

Computer Methods in Applied Mechanics and Engineering edited by Ioan Vjens, mathematics; Shun Sun, King Abdullah University of Science and Technology.
Elsevier.

This special issue, “Advances in Simulations of Subsurface Flow and Transport,” was in honor of Mary F. Wheeler.

Creative Nonfiction
edited by Lee Cottindall, English.
Creative Nonfiction Foundation.

Critical Quarterly
edited by Colin MacCabe, English.
Wiley-Blackwell.

This journal is known for its blend of literary criticism, cultural studies, poetry and fiction.

Japanese Language and Literature edited by Hiroshi Ogi, University of California, Japanese.

This peer-reviewed journal considers submissions in the areas of Japanese literary studies, linguistics and language and literature pedagogy.
The term “ritual” has long enjoyed wide use in a number of disciplines, and many scholars have noted the fundamental social importance of ritualized behaviors and the difficulty of interpreting them. It is only recently, however, that ritual studies has become a recognized interdisciplinary field. The journal includes scholars from anthropology, religious studies, sociology, psychology, performance studies, ancient, medieval, early modern and contemporary history, area studies, philosophy, art, literature, dance and music.

It provides a forum for debate about ritual’s role and meaning, and seeks a better understanding of how rituals function in shaping human experience and history, and in the ways they are performed and enacted. The journal examines these Jewish youth movements only within their bounded national contexts. It also examines the Jewish youth culture as a global phenomenon. By analyzing the issues that concern revolutionary youth Jews in Latin America, North America, the Middle East and Europe, the editors discovered a 1960s Jewish youth revolt that affected not only the nation in which Jews built their lives, but the entire global scope of Jewish history.

The journal focuses on the particular application of ritual and related concepts and methodologies to the study of Jewish life, history, and culture, and on the role of ritual in shaping Jewish identity. The journal is published biannually, and is intended for scholars, educators, and students interested in Jewish history, culture, and identity.
UNIVERSITY TIMES

JOURNALS

LAW

Artificial Intelligence and Law
editors-in-chief: Kevin D. Ashley, law and Learning Research and Development Center; Trevor Bench-Capon, University of Liverpool, Liverpool; Sartor, University of Bologna, Springer.

This journal contains information on theoretical or empirical studies in artificial intelligence, cognitive psychology, jurisprudence, linguistics and philosophy that addresses the development of formal or computational models of legal knowledge, reasoning and decision making. It also includes in-depth studies of innovative artificial intelligence systems that are being used in the legal domain, as well as studies that address the ethical and social implications of the field of artificial intelligence and law.

Search and Seizure Law Report
edited by John M. Barkoff, Thomson Reuters/West.

This is a monthly newsletter featuring expert analysis of the most pressing search and seizure (Fourth Amendment) issues.

MEDICINE

Bipolar Disorders: An International Journal of Psychiatry and Neurosciences

This international journal is dedicated to publishing the results of research relevant to the basic mechanisms, clinical aspects and treatment of bipolar disorders.

Central Asian Journal of Global Health

This is a peer-reviewed, online, open-access, biannual journal aimed at those working in public health and medicine. It focuses on Central Asian countries, a geographic region that often is not highlighted by existing journals.

Journal of Neurophysiology

Founded in 1938, this journal is one of the oldest journals dedicated to neuroscience. It is published twice per month and contains original research articles, reviews and editorials.

Journal of Pediatric and Adolescent Gynecology

This journal serves as an international source of information for health care professionals.

Operative Techniques in Orthopaedics

This illustrated journal keeps practitioners informed about significant advances in all areas of surgical management. Each issue of this atlas-style journal explores a single topic, often offering alternate approaches to the same procedure.

Patient Related Outcome Measures

This is an international, peer-reviewed, open-access journal focusing on treatment outcomes specifically relevant to patients. All aspects of patient care are addressed.

Pediatriand Developmental Pathology

This bimonthly journal is the official publication of the Society for Pediatric Pathology and the Pediatric Pathology Society. It deals with the pathology of disease from conception through adolescence and covers the spectrum of disorders developing in utero (including embryology, placentology and teratology), gestational and perinatal diseases and diseases of childhood.

Pediatric Diabetes
editors-in-chief: Mark A. Spiegel, pediatricians. associate editors: Silvia Arslanian, pediatrics; Dorothy J. Becker, pediatrics; Massimo Fracchi, pediatrics; Ram Manou, Massimo Petropoulos, managing editor: Daniel Bogdan, pediatrics. John Wiley & Sons.

This journal, published eight times a year, is devoted to disseminating new information relating to the epidemiology, etiology, pathogenesis, management, complications and prevention of diabetes in childhood and adolescence.

Journal of Intergenerational Relationships
editors-in-chief: Rafael Engel, School of Social Work; Long Long Thang, National University of Singapore; editor emeritus: Sally Newman, UCSC.

Routledge/Taylor & Francis Group.

This is a forum for issues relevant to race and its relationships to the basic mechanisms, clinical aspects and treatment of bipolar disorders.

LEARNING RESEARCH and DEVELOPMENT CENTER

Artificial Intelligence and Law
editors-in-chief: Kevin D. Ashley, LRDC and School of Law; Trevor Bench-Capon, University of Liverpool, Liverpool; Sartor, University of Bologna, Springer.

This recording features the Bagatto-Williams Piano Duet playing Gyorgy Kurtag’s complete works for piano duet and two pianos as included in the eight published volumes of “Játókek” (“Games”). The work’s original concept was as a collection of pedagogical performance pieces, and the composer has been adding to the series since 1973. These volumes have been published as of 2010, and volumes IV and VIII are for piano four-hands or two pianos. The CD also includes Kurtag’s numerous transcriptions of early music by Bach, Frescobaldi, Purcell, Machaut and others.

ARTS and SCIENCES

Gyorgy Kurtag: Games
performed by Amy Williams, music; Helena Bagatto, Willow.

This recording features the Bagatto-Williams Piano Duet playing Gyorgy Kurtag’s complete works for piano duet and two pianos as included in the eight published volumes of “Játókek” (“Games”). The work’s original concept was as a collection of pedagogical performance pieces, and the composer has been adding to the series since 1973. These volumes have been published as of 2010, and volumes IV and VIII are for piano four-hands or two pianos. The CD also includes Kurtag’s numerous transcriptions of early music by Bach, Frescobaldi, Purcell, Machaut and others.

HEALTH and REHABILITATION SCIENCES

Of Color Braided All Desire: Music of Eric Moe

This is a software program for the assessment and treatment of amblyaudia, a condition that interferes with listening and learning among children and adults. The software will be available in clinics, schools and homes so that individuals with amblyaudia can receive auditory training that will help them to balance performance between the two ears and improve listening and learning.

MEDICINE

Focused Review of Anesthesiology
program chair: Rita Patil, anesthesiology; course director: Tsukasa Sutai, anesthesiology; Oakstone/CME. Info.

This course is designed to fully prepare physicians for the American Board of Anesthesiology certification and recertification examinations. Instructional videos focus on anatomy, physics, mathematics, pharmacology, anesthesia complications and the applicability of different anesthetic techniques to various clinical situations and patient groups. It is designed for training and practicing anesthesiologists preparing for basic or advanced ABS exams.

Race and Social Problems

This is a multidisciplinary international forum for issues relevant to race and its relationships to psychological, socioeconomic, and political cultural problems.

UNIVERSITY CENTER for SOCIAL and URBAN RESEARCH

Journal of Intergenerational Relationships
editors-in-chief: Rafael Engel, School of Social Work; Long Long Thang, National University of Singapore; editor emeritus: Sally Newman, UCSC.

Routledge/Taylor & Francis Group.

This journal is an international, peer-reviewed, online, open-access journal dedicated to the field of social and urban research.

The Carl Beck Papers in Russian and East European Studies edited by William Chase, UCAS and the Dietrich School of Arts and Sciences; Robert Donnorummon, UCAS; Andrew Konitzer, UCES; managing editor: Eileen O’Malley, UCAS.

Center for Russian and East European Studies.

UNIVERSITY CENTER for INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Journal of Intergenerational Relationships
editors-in-chief: Rafael Engel, School of Social Work; Long Long Thang, National University of Singapore; editor emeritus: Sally Newman, UCSC.

Routledge/Taylor & Francis Group.

This is a forum for issues relevant to race and its relationships to the basic mechanisms, clinical aspects and treatment of bipolar disorders.